

This Week at FPC June 4—June 10, 2020

Dear Friends,

I would like to speak briefly to you about two subjects which are probably on your mind. The first is about reopening. Your session will meet on Sunday to discuss when and how we will reopen. I am aware that some churches are starting to open soon or have already opened. Rest assured that your leaders will seek the guidance of the Holy Spirit in determining when it is best to safely resume worship. Your health and safety are just as important to us as your spiritual welfare.

The second subject is virtual worship this Sunday including virtual communion. I remind you again, if you would like to participate, to get and prepare juice of the grape and bread in appropriate small portions ready to consume as part of the worship service Sunday on YouTube. If you are not comfortable doing this, there is no requirement for you to participate. It is an invitation extended to you in strange circumstances by the authority of your church.

We all look forward to the day where we may return to church and once again worship the way we always have. Until then, we will seek to be together in any way we can safely, worshipping however we can, worshipping the one true God that we know as Father, Son, and Spirit.

Yours in Christ, Ron
